1. Read the story and choose the title that best summarises it.

- a) Mouse attracts cat to pub.
- b) Cat walks into pub in Staffordshire.
- c) Cat takes ride to Staffordshire.
- d) Cat turns up 250 miles far from home.

We had tried everywhere. The woods, local parks. It didn't look good. One of our cats, Simba, had been missing for a week. Our two boys, nine-year-old Aston and Bradley, two, were taking it really badly.

5 One morning, I saw Simba going out as usual. By the afternoon, he was missing. His sister, Nala, was lying in the kitchen alone. I called Simba. There was no sign of him.

"Don't worry," I told the boys. "He'll be back with us by dinnertime." But dinnertime came and went. So did breakfast. Still nothing. The boys were sitting by the window, praying for their beloved cat to come home.

10 Days passed. Still nothing. The two boys were getting frantic. Every morning, they would come down and ask if Simba was home. It broke my heart to tell them, "No, not yet."

After two weeks, it looked hopeless. My friend Helen came round for a coffee. "How can I explain to the boys that Simba is just not coming back?" I asked. Then I was interrupted by the phone ringing.

15 "Is that Mrs Black?" a man asked. He said his name was Chris and he was ringing from the Greyhound pub in Staffordshire. "And your cat has just walked right through the bar," he finished.

"Is this some kind of joke?" I asked...

"What more proof do you need other than the fact that I have a cat with your name and number on a collar round his neck?" he replied. "Do you want to pop over and get him?"

20 "But we're more than 250 miles away!" I said.

The following day, Helen and I made the eight-hour trip to pick up Simba. The staff at the pub were lovely and took us straight to see him. I picked him up and gave him a huge cuddle. He raised a sleepy head as if to say "What's all the fuss about?"

We'll never know how Simba managed to get so far.
